Duncan, Sherman & Co.'s Statement.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—A statement of the affairs of Duncan, Sherman & Co. has been prepared for publication from which it appears the liabilities of the firm are $4,872,128, assets $2,112,740. This statement is not official and can be taken as representing only the approximate amount. It has been prepared to answer many inquiries regarding the probable condition of their affairs, and with special care to avoid making a better showing than may be justified by final results. All doubtful assets have been reduced or entirely stricken out. The amount of liabilities given in the statement on account of travelers' credit and circular notes is $27,975.

The New Railway Tariff.

The new freight tariff to the west, an advance on previous rates, goes into effect this morning over the four trunk lines,—the New York Central, Erie, Pennsylvania & Baltimore, and Ohio railroads. Passenger rates were made uniform more than six weeks ago. Freight agents are not permitted to make contracts for more than ten days under new arrangements.

Inspection of the Erie Road.

Sir Edward Watkins, chairman of the stockholders and bondholders' committee of the Erie railway, in England, started last evening on a tour of inspection of the Erie road, and, on his return, will make a thorough examination of the books and affairs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Judge Westbrook made an order this evening on the petition of Hugh Jewett, receiver of the Erie railroad, permitting a contract by which the interest of the railroad company in the Pennsylvania coal lands shall be consolidated with those of the Shawmut Coal Co. A mortgage is to be executed on the property to secure bonds $4,000,000, and a transfer by him to the consolidated company of 5,000 shares of the N. W. Mining and Exchange Co., in exchange for $1,266,667 of said mortgage bonds at par, subject to payment of balance due on the purchase of the New York Co., amounting to $344,080. The Shawmut Co. is to receive certain of said mortgage bonds in payment of its interest in the mortgages of the premised consolidation permitted, of Buffalo, Bradford and Rochester, with capital stock of four millions, in shares of $100 each, of which 22,999 shares, a majority, are to be delivered to the Erie Consolidated Company to guarantee payment of the principal and interest of $4,000,000 bonds of the N. W. Mining and Exchange Company. William D. Shipman was appointed trustee of said bonds. The consolidated company assumes the name of the Pennsylvania and Erie Coal and Railroad Co. The proceeds of the bonds are to be used to construct a railroad to furnish a market for coal. By this Jewett claims advantages to the Erie, including substantially a monopoly of the right to receive and transport freight and passengers over, and beyond the Pennsylvania and Erie Coal and Railroad Co., and that he will best serve the interests of the Erie stockholders. The consolidated company holds 23,107 acres, containing, it is alleged, immense deposits of coal.

In Dakota, wheat will be in the aggregate 65 per cent., oats 79 per cent. and corn 31 per cent. over average. Crops, especially in the Northwest, where storms have done the greatest damage, show first reports to have been considerably exaggerated, and it is thought the yield will not be great, though it will be at least half an average in the worst injured sections.

Parts of the embroidery on the garments on the corpse correspond with the embroidery on several pieces of clothing found near the point where she jumped from the train. Her body will be buried by the railroad company.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Calling in the Shin Plasters.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—A Washington special says the actual amount of five per cent. bonds sold on account of the specie resumption act, is $ 0,600,000. The silver bullion fund foots up $15,000,000, which, with bars and coined silver on hand last January, amounts to nearly $20,000,000. In beginning the redemption of fractional currency it is understood the intention of Secretary Bristow is to call in all denominations under fifty cents, which includes 3, 5, 15 and 25 cents, notes issued since 1862, and which, it is estimated, will require $2,000,000 of 5, 10 and 25 cent subsidiary coin to provide for the temporary hoarding and actual demands of business. The fifty cent notes will then be called in. The actual amount of fractional currency to be replaced is, in round numbers, but $30,000,000, more than one fourth the amount now reported in circulation having been destroyed, the evidence of this being that of the first three series, long since called in, aggregating over $11,000,000, not $1,000,000 was received during the last fiscal year. Already the mint has shipped to the sub treasury and designated depositaries large sums of new coins, and through them the issue will be made and the money received. The treasurer says a million of the hard money can be issued in a short time at New York, at a cost not over one hundred dollars.

The New 5 per Cent. Loan Progressing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—A call for $10,000,0 0 worth of bonds will be issued by the treasury department to-day, the syndicate having made another subscription of that sum. This leaves $38,-56,250 of the new 5 per cent. bonds in the hands of the secretary, and the syndicate has until Nov. 15th to take this amount.

Total, $916,600. Act of June 30, 1864, coupon bonds, $50, No. 1 to 750 inclusive; $100, No. 1 to 3,700 inclusive; $500, No. 1 to 4,300 inclusive; $1,000, No. 1 to 6,200 inclusive; total $5,500,000. Registered bonds for $50, No. 1 to 30 both inclusive; $100, No. 1 to 250 inclusive; $500, No. 1 to 200 both inclusive; $1,000, No. 1 to 140 inclusive; $5,000, No. 1 to 1,520 inclusive; total $3,553,100. Grand total, $10,000,000. Of the amount outstanding, embraced in numbers as above $5,500,000 are coupon bonds.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Prorogation of Parliament—The Queen's Speech.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Parliament was prorogued today until the 29th of October. The Queen's speech, closing the session, says her relations with all foreign powers continue cordial; and she looks forward with confidence to the maintenance of European peace. The visit of Tey Yet, of Zanzibar, has led to the conclusion of a supplementary convention looking to the more complete suppression of the East African slave trade. With regard to the attack on the English expedition, and murder of Margary in the Chinese territory, she says no effort will be spared to secure the punishment of the instigators and perpetrators of the crime. The colonies generally are prosperous. Referring to the preservation of the peace of Ireland, she expresses her gratification at the adoption of a measure which, while relaxing the stringency of former acts, is calculated to secure tranquility there. Regarding the shipping bills, she rejoices that parliament has been able, by a temporary act, to diminish the dangers to which seamen are exposed. She has every reason to hope the progress of revenue which has marked recent years will be fully sustained in the present one.

The Queen's Speech.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Parliament was prorogued today till the 29th of October. The Queen, in her speech closing the session, says:

My lords and gentlemen: I am happy to be enabled to relieve you from attendance at parliament. The relations between myself and all foreign powers continue to be cordial, and I look forward with hope and confidence to the uninterrupted maintenance of European peace. The visit paid this country on the invitation of my government by the ruler of Zanzibar has led to the conclusion of a supplemental convention, which I trust may be efficacious for the more complete suppression of the east African slave trade. I have learned with deep regret that the expedition dispatched by my Indian government from Burmah, with a view to open communication with the western provinces of China, has been treacherously attacked by an armed force while in Chinese territory. This outrage, unhappily involving the death of a young and promising member of my consular service, is the subject of careful inquiry, and no effort shall be spared to secure the punishment of those by whom it was instigated and committed.

The condition of my colonial empire is generally prosperous.

Gentlemen of the house of commons,—I thank you for the liberal supplies you have voted for the public service.

My lords and gentlemen,—It is gratifying to me to find that the enlightened consideration you have given the various statutes which have from time to time been passed for the preservation of peace in Ireland has resulted in a measure which, while relaxing the stringency of former enactments, is calculated to maintain the tranquility of the country.

Her Majesty refers to other principal acts of the session, her reference to the shipping bill being as follows: The state of public business and the difference of opinion naturally arising out of a varied and comprehensive scheme, have unfortunately prevented you from completing the consideration of the merchant shipping bill, but I rejoice that you have been able, by a temporary enactment, to diminish considerable dangers to which my seafaring subjects are exposed. I have every reason to hope that the progress in the revenue system which has marked recent years will be fully sustained in the present. The arrangement which you have made, with respect to the reduction of the national debt, and those for the better remuneration for public works, will lead to valuable improvements in our system of imperial and local finance. In bidding you farewell for the recess, I pray that the blessing of Providence may fall on your recent labors and accompany you in the discharge of all your duties.

FARMING ITEMS.

Wheat brings a dollar a bushel at Albany.

Linn county fair will commence October 5th and continue four days.

W. A. McPherson has retired to private life on a farm near Ten-Mile creek, Douglas county.

We learn, that in the vicinity of Brooks' station, at the upper end of the French prairie, spring wheat promises a very abundant yield.

Wheat on the Tualatin plains yields from 20 to 25 bushels to the acre, which is a good crop considering that much of it was badly winter killed.

E. Quackenbush has sold his farm south of Hillsboro about three miles, consisting of 320 acres, to C. Schulmerich, a German lately from California, for $5,700.

A sprinkler for the fair grounds of the agricultural society in Washington county is badly needed and should be got immediately for the use of the grounds. Last year the dust was almost unbearable.

Hon. Warren Cranston, of Waldo Hills, has a likely young heifer calf that sports two tails, the duplicate appendage being affixed to the spine at the point of the shoulders and having a bone of its own and is four inches long.

New wheat is coming in at Salem very rapidly, and the price paid is $1 per bushel, at which price it seems to be pretty firm. Some small choice lots were bought during the week by the Salem mills at $1 05, but $1 is the quotable price. The Farmers' Warehouse Company have orders for 10,000 bushels at ruling rates.

Mr. Ashby Pierce showed the Granger a remarkable wheat production the other day. It was nothing more than a stool of 87 heads of Chile club wheat from one kernel of seed. Eighty-five of those were perfect and well-filled heads, averaging over 75 kernels to the head. It was sown for chicken feed, and spread out so as to attract notice. Mr. Pierce has preserved the specimen, cutting up the roots, and will send it to the centennial. The straw measures five feet and one inch.

Mr. Chappel, who farms a part of the land claim of Wm. Greenwood, deceased, on Howell prairie, Marion county, has just finished threshing his fall wheat—65 acres, headed and used the Pitt's Challenger thresher. The yield is 48 bushels per acre, machine measure. The land was summer fallowed and the drill was used in sowing. The land has been run in grain, more or less, for 29 years past. Eight horses were used on the horsepower and 930 bushels threshed in one day.

A correspondent of the Statesman at Junction City, writes under date of August 12th, as follows: The first new wheat shipped over the Oregon and California railroad was forwarded from Junction to Allen & Lewis, Portland, to-day. All hands and machines are busy harvesting in this vicinity, and wheat is coming into the warehouses at this point very rapidly. Fall sown and early sown spring wheat is turning out all that could be desired, but late sown spring wheat is light, caused by the extremely dry weather of the past few weeks. Taken altogether the crop will be but very little under the average.

The Farmer says: "Great improvements have been made to the State Fair grounds of late. Hon. M. Wilkins, President of the Society, was in town this week and visited the grounds to see the progress made. The booths that were so unsightly have all been removed and so rebuilt as to recognize regular streets, and appear much more ornamental than formerly. The grand stand, which was unroofed last winter, has been re-covered. Mr. Wm. Bybee, well known as a horse trainer, has now in hand some of the best stock in our State, training the same to good advantage, and as a consequence we may expect to see some good trials of speed at the next State Fair.

The Yamhill Reporter of the 12th says: "Last Monday morning harvest began with a rush, in this section, and is continuing with unabated activity in almost every direction. The yield of fall wheat is far above all estimates heretofore made, and in quality is fully sustaining Oregon's reputation for its bright, healthy grain. Among the fields we have heard mentioned for their heavy yields, are those of Messrs. Granville Baker and James McPhillips. Mr. McPhillips harvested 55 acres and turned out over 54 bushels to the acre, and Mr. Baker is now harvesting a large field near town, which he thinks will yield over 50 bushels. There are many fields that are going from 40 to 47 bushels to the acre, and none that we have heard of on this side of the river, that has fallen short of 35."

Edward Parmenter, of Salem, received a wound from an accidental discharge of a pistol about a week ago, and paid but little attention to it at the time. The ball struck his knee, and a few days ago it began to swell and serious consequences are feared.

HOW THEY DO AT WILHOIT'S.

WILHOIT SPRINGS, Aug. 12, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

As there seems to be a scarcity of correspondence from the numerous watering places of our State, I venture to send you a short account of some occurrences at this celebrated spot. From its proximity to our chief cities, this spring is destined, no doubt, to become a favorite summer resort. Nature has certainly done her part to furnish all that is desirable for a healthful and quiet retreat from all the ills of civilized life. But humanity is fast spoiling as much of Nature's work as possible, and, so far, has not succeeded in substituting anything half as lovely as the moss-hung vine maples so ruthlessly sacrificed for tent-poles and firewood.

We had a ball a week ago, when the neighboring young folks congregated and hopped the hours away, in the large hall erected for that purpose. The performance was on a principle the reverse of the old adage, that used to be quoted in our childhood, "seen and not heard;" in this instance, it was "heard and not seen," as the hall was but doubtfully illuminated by

FOUR TALLOW CANDLES.

The hotel is crowded to overflowing, and the open camping grounds are not very pleasant now, as there have been so many persons in here with their horses. But there is plenty of new ground, pleasantly situated, if it was only cleared of underbrush, and this is fast being done. Mr. Wilhoit is doing all in his power to accommodate the public, and making all the improvement he is able to make. One could imagine how lovely the place might be made with a great outlay of money and taste; but, when this was done, it would never do to let in everybody to camp on the grounds, as some people (and their children) destroy as fast as others can build. Many of the people who visit these springs are invalids who cannot afford to pay for fine things. It would be well for people to consider that as soon as the place is fitted up to suit the more fastidious taste, people will have to pay for it. Luxury costs a deal more than comfort. As it now is,

THE POOR AND SUFFERING

May come, and be made quite comfortable, and have a chance to test the efficacy of the water. Many are undoubtedly benefited. There are springs of pure mountain water quite convenient, if the soda water disagrees with any one. Yesterday there were twenty-six ladies and twenty three children on the grounds, from Salem and vicinity.

I wonder if there is any music left in Salem? As I write the tall forests echo with TALLER MINSTRELSY.

The Salem brass band has come up to occupy the land, and its bugle notes are multiplied by echoes from at least a thousand firs. Its only rival is the "Salem choir," composed of some of the A 1 singers of the church choirs. We have music at "early morn," then soda water; music "at noon," then more soda; music "at eve," and a parting treat to all hands around the spring, at 10 or later; and we had music "at dead of night," from some members of the band, owing probably to a scarcity of beds at the hotel.

Some of the invalids in camp, and the ladies at the hotel, who are all fond of music, were serenaded. The serenaders were generously treated to

ONE BOX OF SARDINES,

In the absence of other flowers. But undoubtedly the finest music we have had was from an orchestra composed of a violin, guitar, and two coarse combs, accompanied by "voices of the night." The chords were superb. Some folks, I hear, are homesick, but I notice that the homesick ones are generally ladies with young babies, who cannot get out to go hunting mosses, or blackberrying or fishing (for crawfish or waternewts), and who have left their husbands at home. We have had twelve trout caught from the spring stream, and five or six from the Molalla. There are more fish, but bait is scarce. We propose sending to Kansas for a supply next year. Yours, &c., LICHEN.

A FUNERAL STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

REMARKABLE SCENE IN A BROOKLYN CEMETERY.

Captain Jacob Johnson, a native of Denmark, who for many years commanded a vessel that sailed between Havana and the different European ports, settled down in Brooklyn, several years ago, and became an inmate in the family of Mr. W. H. Drew, 101 Park Place. The captain had no other intimate friends in this country, and from frequent conversations with him on the subject, Mr. Drew judged that he either had left none in his native country, or that he wished to drop all communication with them. Last Saturday Capt. Johnson died, and on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock the funeral procession started from Mr. Drew's house for the cemetery of the Evergreens, Mr. Drew and his family being the only mourners. The few carriages had hardly started before the rain began to fall, and the ride to the cemetery was through a drenching shower, blinding flashes of lightning and crashing thunder, adding to the solemnity of the burial of the stranger Dane.

When the cemetery was reached, the rain was pouring down in torrents, and the little procession halted before the cemetery office, to wait for a lull in the storm. The hearse was the first vehicle, the carriage containing Mr. Drew and his family was next, and four or five other carriages were behind. Every flash of the lightning seemed to strike on the hill, and the roar and crash of the thunder was deafening. A loud report frightened the horses attached to the hearse, and they began to rear and plunge. The horses of the first carriage also were frightened, and it was all the driver could do to hold them. The occupants of the carriages were terribly frightened, and began to get out as fast as they could. Dr. Drew's carriage was soon emptied of all but Mr. Drew's daughter, a young lady, who was just about to alight, when two balls of fire, seemingly two feet in diameter, dropped just in front of the horses' heads, and burst with a report like a cannon. At the same minute there was a blinding flash of lightning, followed instantaneously by a crash of thunder that made the cemetery hill tremble. The horses attached to Mr. Drew's carriage sprang forward, running the pole through the back of the hearse and throwing the coffin of the dead captain from its mountings. They began to plunge, and the front of the carriage was dashed against the hearse and badly shattered. Miss Drew, who sat on the inside front seat, was thrown out and severely bruised. The driver could not control the horses, and they started to run, dragging the remains of the carriage up the main avenue of the cemetery, and going nearly a mile before they could be stopped. The driver was also thrown from his seat and slightly injured. The same shock that frightened Mr. Drew's horses struck one of the horses attached to the next carriage, and knocked him down, but did not injure him.

After waiting for nearly an hour in the office the storm abated, and the procession started again for the grave. With the usual ceremonies, the coffin was lowered into its water-soaked resting place, and Captain Johnson's faithful friends went home.—N. Y. Sun.

Corvallis, says the Benton Democrat, has begun to feel the effects of the proposed railroad, and new buildings are springing up in all parts of the town. At present about 20 new buildings are receiving the finishing touches, or are in the course of construction.

OREGON.

The Albany Democrat has begun its XIth volume.

The Port Orford Lumbering Company has suspended operations.

There is not an empty dwelling-house in Empire City; more buildings needed.

Work has begun on the narrow-gauge railroad from Coaledo, Coos county, to the Coquille river.

B. D. Jones had his leg badly broken in the Jones coal mine, last Wednesday, by some falling rock in the tunnel.

T. M. Reed has subscribed $1,000 to the Corvallis and Yaquina railroad. Ninety-nine more such subscriptions are wanted.

The sheriff of Yamhill county is searching for a man who stole some horses from Mr. Smith near Wheatland a few days ago.

On last Wednesday the dwelling of James Reed, of Tualatin precinct, was burnt up with all his household effects. No insurance.

The British steamship Vasco de Gama put into Port Orford on her last trip from San Francisco to Victoria. She remained one day.

Mr. Leedy, of Albany prairie, this week harvested fifty acres of fall wheat which averaged thirty-three bushels per acre. Good enough.

The G. W. C. T. for Oregon has appointed W. S. James, of Baker City, a State deputy, and Wm. Moffitt, of Eldorado district, district deputy for Baker county.

A family returned home to Salem, a few days ago, from a two weeks' excursion, bringing with them 50 gallons of blackberries and 20 gallons of whortleberries for winter use.

The Coos Bay Literary Society was organized at Empire City last week. Judge Winchester was elected president, S. H. Hazard, vice president, and Miss Lilie Lockhart, secretary.

G. W. C. T. Dunbar could find no convenient hall in which to lecture on temperance at Connor creek, Baker county, so a saloon-keeper named Glover set his decanters and glasses under the counter and offered his saloon to Mr. Dunbar for his lecture. The attendance was large and good order was observed.

The Albany Democrat hears rumors of a revolting affair in Sweet Home or Waterloo precinct, in that county, in which an old white haired hypocrite, who exhorts and occasionally preaches in one of the country churches in that neighborhood, and a little 12-year old girl are implicated. The affair will probably get into the courts.

Mr. John Briggs, of Albany, has been appointed correspondent and collecting agent for the ethnological department of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, and is specially charged to gather up all possible specimens of the handiwork of the aborigines of the country, including everything that tends to illustrate the past and present modes of life among the children of the forest.

The executive office at Salem, a few days since received and turned over to the State treasurer, a U. S. draft for $1,970 91, currency, being 5 per cent. of the net proceeds of the sales of the public lands in Oregon, for the year ending December 31, 1874. This fund is due to the State by virtue of the act of Congress approved February 14, 1859, for the admission of Oregon into the Union.

Squire Duncan, Milton and Frank Markham, have returned to Albany from a successful raid on the wild blackberries of the western slope of the Cascades. They went up to the big burn on the headwaters of Silver creek, twelve miles northeast of Stayton and six miles from the Bigger ranch, and in five days gathered 105 gallons of splendid berries. They had to pack them on horseback six miles.

Miss Eva Mitchell, of McMinnville, killed a large beaver with a club a few days ago. The animal was as large as a common sized shepherd dog, and had been despoiling Mr. Mitchell's vegetable crop for some time with perfect impunity, eluding all attempts heretofore made to capture him. Now his hide is safely preserved "fur" future use, it having been removed from the animal's frame and salted down by Eva herself.

A girl named McKern, about 16 years old, made a sudden disappearance, on Tuesday of last week, from the residence of Mr. Frank Bidwell, near North Yamhill, with whom she has been making her home for some time, and although diligent search has been made for the fugitive, ever since her departure, by her foster parents, no trace or tidings have been discovered. She must have determined on making a protracted stay away from home, as she took her clothing along with her.

A CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS.

OREGON CITY, August 12, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I was appointed by the Independents of Clackamas county a delegate to the state convention, and was represented there by proxy. But, in the present state of affairs, I desire to say that I think all Independents have reason to be perfectly satisfied with Hon. Henry Warren as their candidate. He is a tried man, honest, pure and capable. He belongs to no ring, and is entirely sound on all principles specially advocated by Independents. I, for one, shall do all I can to secure his election, and hope no effort will be made to present a third candidate. WM. BARLOW.

The Temperance convention at Salem yesterday endorsed the nomination of Henry Warren for congressman.

WHAT IS BEST TO BE DONE?

Hon George W Lawson who has always actively supported the Independent movement writes to advise Independents not to attempt, under present circumstances, to run a candidate for congressman, but to maintain their independence by voting for the better one of the two party candidates according to their best judgment. He urges that under existing circumstances it will be impossible to command for a separate candidate the strength that properly belongs to the Independent organization, and that to run through and come out at the end with a meager showing, when, in fact, the party is strong, would be to discourage independent effort in the future. His view addresses itself to our mind as worthy of further consideration. The vote for Mr Campbell for Governor last year was so much beyond what had been generally expected as to be an astonishment to many. If the Independents had "got off on the right foot" in the present campaign, they would poll more votes at the election than the Republicans. Everything indicated that. In fact, it was a common saying, and that too among Republicans, before the conventions that if the Republicans were wise they would not run a third candidate but would take up the Independent nominee. But it is sure the advantage which the Independents possessed has been lost. Through one of those mistakes which very good and very well informed men do sometimes make the nominee of the Independents would start off badly. They are crippled. It is doubtful whether they could now secure for their candidate even one half the votes they really have in the State, and the appearance of weakness at the election would be taken for an indication that the movement had been repudiated by the people. The loss, due in fact solely to an extraneous cause, would be set down for a general abandonment of the cause by its former supporters, and would in all probability so discourage and depress the Independents as to make the organization for another campaign impossible. There will, of course, be differences of opinion on this subject. We trust nothing will be done that will involve a sacrifice of the essential principle of independence of party dictation in the exercise of the elective franchise, which is the central idea of the independent movement.

MR. THURMAN ON THE OHIO PLATFORM

Senator Thurman's speech delivered at Mansfield, Ohio, July 31st, was in some respects a really great performance. It showed marks of much labor and consummate skill in the presentation of the good points, and the covering up of the bad, in the Democratic platform. He yielded nothing of his hard money sentiments, but made a most adroit argument to show that the Ohio platform does not contain the rag-money doctrines attributed to it. He says the demand for an issue of paper currency of such an amount as the wants of commerce may indicate, without any specification of that amount, is not a demand for inflation, because the wants of commerce may not require any more than there is of the present currency, and that the rag-money proposed to be issued is not necessarily irredeemable, because the platform says nothing on the subject of redemption. All that sounds like pettifogging, and Mr Thurman did himself credit, after this attempt to explain away the meaning of the platform, by remarking that the platform in this respect was by no means what it should be. And then he says platforms don't amount to much anyhow, in these latter days, as few persons read them, and those who are intelligent enough to see what a mess of unmitigated demagoguery most of them are, and how little attention they receive from the parties that used them to carry the election.

But Mr Thurman was ill at ease in this part of his speech, and was evidently very glad when he got through it. He said in effect that Democrats should have no strife over such non-essentials as the currency question and the national finance, so long as they were agreed upon the great principles of Democracy. Just what those great principles are, compared with which the question now pressing, as to what can be done to arrest the flood of shinplasters, or what can be done to revive business, Mr Thurman omits to state. All we can ascertain about them is that they are the "great principles of Democracy." It would really be something of a pleasure to have some of the Democrats furnish us an accurate statement of what those great principles consist.

THE ALDEN FRUIT DRYER AT SALEM

On last Thursday we looked in upon the Alden fruit drying establishment at Salem, which is now running on peach plums from Walling's orchard. Through the politeness of Mr T McF Patton, the superintendent, we were enabled to see the entire process of curing the fruit, from its original state, as taken from the tree, to its coming out, better cured than any sun-dried or furnace dried fruit produced in this or any other country. From last Saturday till Thursday of this week 406 bushels were cured. These were all of the Walling crop, and there were, on Thursday, something over 500 bushels more of the same harvest already in hand, besides more yet to come.

The cured product is about 20 pounds to every 100 pounds of green fruit. When the curing is completed the fruit is put up in small compact packages, ready for transportation.

The Salem establishment has four evaporators capable of holding over 50 screens each, and is run night and day to its full capacity.

The introduction of this method of drying or curing fruit is a very important addition to the productive industry of the State. Perhaps there is no other country in the world where the fruits peculiar to northern latitudes can be produced in such abundance and perfection as in Oregon. The new process of curing will make available all the fruit that can be produced whereas under the old methods vast quantities were permitted to rot under the trees and the orchards, being unprofitable were neglected and allowed to decay.

SOMETHING FOR LAUGHING PEOPLE TO THINK ABOUT

Those who laugh at the calamity of the Independents entirely fail to comprehend the situation. While circumstance have thrown the Independents into rather a perturbed state of mind the truth is their troubles are more apparent than real. They have accomplished so much in the development of the sentiment of independence among the people that the masses in both the old parties are practically independent. The party lash has lost its terror. People will do as they please. If the Independent party should never be heard of again as an organization, it is a leaven that will continue to work among the people, showing itself in the scratched ticket, and the local bolt, whenever the conduct of the party managers shall be grossly improper. Nominations of parties will not amount to very much especially in local matters unless they are good nominations. Official rascality will not escape unexposed for want of an Independent organization, for the Independent papers, though doubtless they will all have their leanings toward the parties in existence, will not be silenced. They will still stand as sentinels in the watch towers, ready to denounce corruption and scoundrelism in all parties. Let all the rings take notice of this, and govern themselves accordingly.

How in the world could the Temperance party afford to nominate Warren for congressman after he had been nominated by the Republicans? True Warren is a good temperance man but then to think of the Temperance party giving up its organization by nominating a man whom somebody outside of that party considers worthy of the position.

A CARD.

EUREKA W T Aug 12 1875

My attention has been called to an item published in the Evening Journal of August 10th under the head of POISONED BY EATING CANNED SALMON which reflects upon me as the salmon in question is said to be the Star Brand from my fishery. The item states that when the can was first opened the persons ate of its contents without unpleasant results. The can remained open two days when the same persons again partook of the fish and soon after they began purging as if poisoned etc. This is not to be wondered at as a can of any kind of canned goods will commence fermenting in a very short time after being opened and allowing the air to come in contact with it more particularly canned fish. The very fact that the parties eat from the can on its first being opened proves that the salmon was good and that they could only blame themselves for allowing it to stand long enough to spoil before eating it. Any fish will spoil in warm weather sometimes in twenty four hours according to the warmth of the climate it is exposed in. In some climates it will keep after being opened for several days if in winter time but the general supposition is that when a party opens a can of fish that they will follow the directions on label and not open until they require to use it and then if they follow these directions I desire that they first cut the top entirely out of the can, then place it in a dish partly filled with boiling water so the water will come up two thirds to the top of the can and let the can stand until the fish is thoroughly heated through when they will empty it out on a dish to be served from table which will avoid breaking the fish as in doing this it comes out in a solid lump and by covering it with a nice sauce makes a fine and wholesome dish. If wanted cold it is expected that any one would empty the fish out of the can into a vegetable dish and pour vinegar on it, if desired this way but it is not expected for any one to eat a little from the can and then let it spoil expecting that it will keep any length of time after opening and allow anyone to partake of at their pleasure. As regards using coloring or adulterating the fish in any way I don't do any thing of the kind nor never did nor never heard of any one who has ever done so. My fish come fresh and hard to the shop and are canned at once while fresh. After being nicely cleaned and cut up ready for the cans and the cans are always washed before putting in any fish the only thing put in is a little salt for seasoning. When the fish and salt are in the can it is then sealed up and cooked at once. Great injustice has been done me in publishing any such cards and they should not have done so until they had proofs that I am guilty of so base an outrage.

A Brief History of the Business Since its Introduction to this Coast.

The Pirates on its Trade-Mark Who have been Fought—The Frauds that have been Exposed—Particular Notice of the Last Grand Coup of the Enemy—Wherein Mr Milton J Hardy Avails Himself of a Legal Right to do a Commercial Wrong—Etc.

[illegible] INTRODUCTORY REFLECTIONS

Since the commerce of the world—at first wayward and restricted only by the necessities of time and occasion—has been brought under the restraints and governing power of the different trading nations commercial law has become a science more difficult and complicated and calling for the exercise of greater analytical skill in its interpretation than any other branch of jurisprudence that controls and affects human affairs. Commerce with its Briarean arms reaches out and embraces the whole earth civilized and uncivilized. It is the source of natural wealth and national greatness and that country which legislates for it by wise encouraging and discriminating laws will take its place at the head of the family of nations and retain it so long as wisdom, in this respect rules its councils. A judicious tariff system, a well devised trade mark and patent law—which England found necessary as early as the reign of Queen Elizabeth—that give the merchant trader and inventor confidence that the fruits of his venture, dealing and executive skill will not be lost to him through unfair rivalry and the machinations of adventurers have elevated America, France and England and sent the white winged messengers of commerce to fleck every sea, have built up colossal fortunes for those engaged and made their respective countries in fact the moneyed and political powers of the world. But carefully drawn and rigidly enforced as commercial laws usually are some loopholes and weak places are found wanting occasionally of which the unscrupulous in field and can avail himself to the detriment of the honest and exact dealer and hence our law reports are full of cases where the legitimate merchant has appealed for protection against the [illegible] of commercial circles who without sufficient business capacity or application to plan for themselves, or begrudging the amount necessary to pay for the ideas of others by which a profit might be realized, deliberately steal from their larger brained and more liberal contemporaries and trust to the incredulity of the courts to secure them their ill gotten gains. These reflections have occurred to us while thinking of the sea of trouble

THE GENUINE J H CUTTER WHISKY

Has had to go through in this State since its introduction and of the new phase that has recently developed in regard to the controversy concerning this trade mark covering it. We propose to give briefly an analytical history of this subject pointing out the different nefarious attempts that have been made to impose on the public by a bogus article and to curtail the profits of the legitimate proprietors and the authorized agent on this coast and the successive defeats before the Courts of these attempts. As an incident of this showing those who have so persistently violated not only all commercial honor but even the rules of common decency in the premises will not meet with much favor from the public. We propose further—referring to the new phase spoken of above—to unmask the more specious disguise some persons have lately assumed and are now wearing and by which they hope with a color of right and law to gain a point so long and hitherto unsuccessfully fought for. Before doing this it will be necessary to give

A SHORT HISTORY

Of the origin and manufacture of the J H Cutter Whisky in Louisville Ky which will show it is next to impossible for any one except Mr C P Moorman of the city named who owns one half the original trade mark and is in sole possession of the secret formula for the preparation of the Whisky—to produce the simon pure article. Bourbon District—embracing several counties in Kentucky—is the place and the only place from whence the genuine Cutter Whisky comes and the late John H Cutter originally from Hollis New Hampshire was the distiller who first offered for sale the article which bears his name. Cutter made the production of a good wholesome whisky a life study. He spared neither pains nor expense. His travels in furtherance of this object extended over Illinois Indiana Ohio and other States and after the closest scrutiny and a series of crucial tests he came to the conclusion that three counties in the Bourbon District, Kentucky already referred to were the only ones fitted for the production of that Whisky which it was his ambition to give the world and which indeed, has since become world famous under his brand. The majority of the distillers in the Bourbon District have resided there for years. They distil in small quantities and those who are acquainted with the habits and tastes of Kentuckians in this respect know how particular they are to make their distillations from the purest and best material. Cutter's wont was to make a trip to this district every fall, be there at the mashing and to select his grain which the distillers manufactured for him, retaining an article absolutely as pure as it came from the still. This plan of personal selection is practiced by Mr Moorman at the present time. The possession of the [illegible] is only the first step however in the process. The secret of the happy blending of liquors of certain ages which is the peculiar brand's favor Cutter was known to but Cutter and Moorman his partner, and it was this manipulation that gave the J H Cutter Whisky its reputation and which has continued it and made a fortune for the owners and those associated with him.

MR C P MOORMAN

Was partner with J H Cutter in the profits arising from the manufacture and sale of the whisky. Mr Moorman up to the time of Cutter's death had been a partner for eleven years and in the latter period of the partnership transacted all the material portion of the business as the business head of operations in Louisville. Mr Hardy married one of J H Cutter's daughters but was not interested in the firm of J H Cutter & Co as partner. It was Mr Hardy's business to look after the New York agency, and [illegible] in that city. He occupied the same position in New York as A P Hotaling & Co do in San Francisco. Hardy knew no more of the secret of the manufacture of the J H Cutter Whisky than do the people who drink it and although owning one half of the trade mark his ignorance in this respect continues till the present day.

CUTTER RETIRED FROM BUSINESS

On the 21 of July 1870 having amassed considerable wealth. Desiring to provide for his son in law Hardy and being friendly disposed toward his partner Moorman he sold to them his brand trade mark and business absolutely. For the brand alone they paid $10,000, for the stock in trade business etc about $[illegible]. The business was so prosperous that the amount—some $[illegible]—was paid the executors of the estate after Mr Cutter's death before the installments became due. Mr Cutter died on the [illegible]th of July 1870 five days after he had retired from active life. Messrs Moorman & Hardy continued the business as in former partners under the firm and style of C P Moorman & Co—Moorman residing in Louisville and managing and controlling the distilleries warehouses etc, and Hardy still continuing his residence and agency in New York where he lived in an expensive and aristocratic style affording a marked contrast to the family habits of his more modest but richer partner in Kentucky. Circumstances which it is not necessary to detail here led to some dissatisfaction on the part of Moorman and he proposed an amicable dissolution of partnership in the early part of 187[illegible]. This Mr Hardy was very averse to and urged strongly that their business relations be continued four or five years longer. Finding, however Moorman was determined to part company Hardy took the bull by the horns and commenced suit for dissolution which was [illegible] (as advertised in the public journals) December [illegible] 187[illegible]. The case was brought before Judge Ballard of the United States Circuit Court Kentucky and in its course some curious revelations were made concerning the New York branch and of the little profit the business in that city had been to the general partnership. In the adjustment of the affairs of the concern and the disposal of the property everything was arranged satisfactorily except

THE IMPORTANT J H CUTTER TRADE MARK

Judge Ballard was at first disposed to put this into liquidation with the rest of the partnership assets to sell it to the highest bidder as urged by Mr Hardy's counsel. But on reconsideration he concluded this course would not be justifiable either on public or private grounds. The reasons he offered for this conclusion were very sensible and may be summed up as follows: For years this trade mark had covered a very superior article on it by constant care and attention on the part of the manufacturer had gained the confidence of the people. If it were put up to public competition manufacturers of inferior goods—who would find profit in paying five times the value for it—might get possession of the prize and thus work a palpable fraud on the public and further it would not be justice to either one of the owners to compel him to pay an excessive price in order to prevent the property passing from his hands. Therefore the trade mark was taken out of the list of assets and retired or placed in abeyance where it continues till the present writing—Mr C P Moorman of Louisville Ky owning one half, and Milton J Hardy of New York owning the other.

THE ATTEMPTS AT INFRINGEMENT

Having thus given in brief the history of this famous whisky of its trade mark and the Cutter, Moorman and Hardy partnership under which the business was conducted we will take a step or two forward and [illegible] locally important history in connection with it in particular the attempts at infringement to which the famous trade mark has been subjected in this city. A P Hotaling & Co were appointed agents for the genuine J H Cutter Whisky in 1864 and in that time the house here has built up a tremendous trade exciting the cupidity of [illegible] who have sought by [illegible]. The history of the Cutter Whisky on this coast is pretty well known from the records of the law courts. Moorman and Hardy through their agents have had from the first [illegible] the long fight against imitators and inferior manufacturers who have sought [illegible] to destroy the prestige of the whisky and failing in this have endeavored to run their own vile stuff into the market under J H Cutter's name. The first notable suit we find growing out of these attempts was in March or February 1870 and the names of the defendants will show the quarter from which all or nearly all the trouble has come. The title of this suit was

MILTON J HARDY AND [illegible] C P MOORMAN VS EDWARD MARTIN [illegible] HENRIE AND [illegible]

And the cause of complaint in this was that Martin and the other defendants put up at their store 108 Front street a vile spurious and nauseous compound labeled on the bottle as follows:

PURE OLD BOURBON WHISKY selected and bottled expressly for medical and family use by Cutter & Co of Louisville Kentucky. Agency for Pacific coast E P Rowe 108 Front Street San Francisco.

Rowe was a runner for the house of E Martin & Co and he was made the scape goat in this transaction. The name Cutter & Co of Louisville Kentucky as on the label was a purely fictitious one. It was proved to have no existence except in the imagination of this Front street firm to whom the genuine Cutter Whisky has ever been an objective point. The case was quickly disposed of and Messrs Martin & Henrie retired defeated to plan a new line of attack. In August 1871 we find them coming again to the front with the cry

EUREKA

On their lips. They had found at last as they thought in the person of John H Cutter, son of John H Cutter deceased, the lever to lift their difficulties and they resolved at once to make use of him. They put on the market an article of whisky bearing his name and asked the public to accept it as a lower priced but as whisky equally good with that manufactured by his father. But the public had a better palate than the Front Street firm gave it credit for and refused to accept the fraud. The knowing ones concluded it did not follow that because this young Cutter was the son of his father he knew anything about the secret of the manufacture of the genuine Cutter any more than Milton J Hardy (who had been the agent resident in New York) is supposed to know it. Instigated by Martin and Henrie no doubt the young man had the audacity to commence a suit in Judge McKinstry's court against Moorman & Hardy for an alleged infringement of the Cutter Whisky trade mark which he assumed still belonged to the family but which as the defendants conclusively proved they had purchased from his father before his death and paid the price in full. Even if the trade mark had remained part of the estate bequeathed to defendant and his brothers and sisters the Judge ruled he had no right to bring suit, had no status in court as his portion of the property (two nineteenths or about $1600) was held by trustees appointed by his father just before his death. These trustees owing to the extravagant habits of Cutter although a man grown, did not feel justified in surrendering to him their trust. A motion for a non suit was promptly granted and confirmed on appeal to the Supreme Court. This same John H Cutter afterward went to Louisville where he was arrested on the 7th of February 187[illegible] for drawing a sword cane on Mr C P Moorman, fined $100 and shortly afterward died miserably in the work house while serving out a penalty in addition to the fine of thirty days imprisonment. Thus ended the second chapter and Messrs Henrie and Martin took up their line of retreat again to wait for another opportunity to attack. But in the meantime it came

MOORMAN AND HARDY'S TURN

To act on the offensive and accordingly in June 1871 and while John H Cutter was still in the market and Henrie's hands as a pliant tool they commenced action against this Front street firm and Cutter and for cause of complaint showed that the said John H Cutter one of the defendants was never engaged in the business of manufacturing, putting up or vending whiskies prior to the 11th day of July 1870 and that then nor since then on his own account nor in any manner except in selling the use of his name; that the defendants Henrie and Martin have ever since the 1st day of July 1870 in this city and county been jointly engaged in putting up and vending inferior spurious articles under the names of Rye Whisky and Bourbon Whisky to wit spurious articles made from molasses and other substances unknown to plaintiff and compounded and colored and flavored with drugs chemicals and other deleterious substances; that none of the whiskies so put up and vended by defendants were or have been or now are distilled or manufactured from rye or from corn. A pretty formidable argument by Messrs M & H when the public's stomach and brains are taken into account. The complaint further charges that Messrs Martin & Henrie combined and confederated with John H Cutter to deceive and cheat dealers in whisky and the public and it is sworn to in the [illegible] by A P Hotaling agent on the coast for J H Cutter's Whisky. The plaintiffs claim damages in $10,000. This case we believe is still before the Nineteenth District Court of this state.

SOME MINOR INFRINGEMENTS

By worthless persons have also been made on this much coveted J H Cutter trade mark but the position of these poor in the community and the small amount of damage caused did not justify active proceedings against them. They were but the imitators in a small way of larger and bolder frauds and infractions and were promptly detected and squelched. There was one small fraud however which for its ingenuity deserves to be noticed. The deception in this case consisted in pasting over the cork of a bottle of [illegible] a label bearing the signature A P Cutter & Co—a fictitious firm—in the same way that the label A P Hotaling & Co is pasted over the genuine article the initials being dead imitations of each other. When the cork of the bogus bottle was drawn the letters A P remained on the neck while the corkscrew destroyed the name Cutter & Co. It was likely to deceive on sight, but the consumer was soon undeceived when he tasted the horribly nauseous A P Cutter & Co compound. As soon as this fraud was detected the perpetrator fled the state to avoid the consequences of his acts. We now come to the

LAST AND MOST IMPORTANT FEATURE

In this weary fight to get possession on the one hand of property to which there is no just claim and on the other to defend what has been honestly and legitimately acquired. This phase has developed within the last few months and in comparison to its magnitude all previous attempts sink into insignificance. Under the color of right and law the movement is calculated to work irreparable injury to the legitimate manufacturer of the J H Cutter Whisky and to deceive the public into buying an article that is not Cutter Whisky at all. In this case strange and unexpected as it may seem the objectionable contingency sought to be avoided by Judge Ballard when he placed the Cutter trade mark in abeyance has arisen and the time honored reputation as a manufacturer of honest pure and wholesome whisky which the dead and gone J H Cutter spent his life in acquiring is likely to be sacrificed at the shrine of unscrupulous greed. It is only by placing the public on their guard—as we endeavor to do in this article—that the mischief can be prevented. The Louisville manufacturer and sole possessor of the Cutter secret Mr C P Moorman, who unfortunately owns only one half of the trade mark is powerless before the law to protect himself or purchasers and beyond stating the facts in the case and uttering a warning must remain passive.

HOW THE FRAUD MOVE WAS MADE

It is stated that [illegible] James Mairs a friend of the house of E Martin & Co is the party to whom the firm is indebted for the happy thought [illegible] of whipping the venerable [illegible] In other words of [illegible] to the public palate. He it was [illegible] New York and pointed out to Milton J Hardy son in law to J H Cutter how he could use his ownership in the trade mark to steal a march on Moorman and flood the market with a low priced whisky [illegible] J H Cutter and also how very necessary it was to make his favorite house the house of E Martin & Co—the old time enemies of the genuine Cutter Whisky and its agent on this coast—the means by which to effect the new deal. Hardy took the bait greedily. The first evidence that [illegible] in the Bulletin of the 30th ult in the shape of the following advertisement

J. H. CUTTER'S OLD BOURBON AND RYE WHISKY manufactured by MILTON J HARDY & CO (sons in law and successors of J H Cutter) Louisville Ky. E MARTIN & CO Sole Agents for the Pacific Coast.

The 300 barrels [illegible] referred to below which this advertisement is intended to cover were purchased we understand principally in Louisville [illegible] Cutter barrel which is [illegible] the packages bear the brand of Milton J Hardy instead of C P Moorman which name [illegible] the barrels has been carefully scraped from the head.

The following item is also in the trade report of the [illegible]

In this connection (speaking of Kentucky whiskies) we mention the fact that E Martin & Co have been appointed Agents for J H Cutter's Celebrated Bourbon and Rye Whiskies of which an invoice by the steamer [illegible] is now landing.

[illegible] E Martin & Co are the agents for Whisky put up by Milton J Hardy & Co [illegible] covered by J H Cutter's trade mark which owning as he does one half of it Hardy has a legal but not a moral right to do. The equal ownership of a trade mark does not necessarily imply knowledge of preparing the article in the manner which gives it its value in the eyes of the public. As we have stated before Mr Milton J Hardy whose time was always occupied by the Agency in New York knows no more about the preparation of the genuine J H Cutter Whisky than any of the surviving sons or daughters of the original [illegible]. While enjoying the profits during the existence of the old firm [illegible] he never [illegible] the practical [illegible] of the source from whence the wealth flowed which enabled him to live in such splendid style in the Empire City. That knowledge is confined solely to C P Moorman of Louisville Ky. To him belong the warehouses and distilleries [illegible] with the distillers in the Blue Grass regions of the Bourbon District in Kentucky and his exclusive possession of that secret and the practical experience [illegible] advantages [illegible] the Whisky market of the world [illegible] competitors.

CONCLUSION

The public [illegible] for all the main facts [illegible] Whisky history [illegible] business rivals [illegible] the Cutter family who [illegible] Mr C P Moorman [illegible] the ownership of the trade mark [illegible] to be possessed of [illegible]

[illegible] from New York [illegible] Martin & Co is not in any sense the genuine J H Cutter Whisky nor will future shipments sent to them by the house of Hardy & Co New York as original J H Cutter Whisky manufactured by them and received by E Martin & Co as their agents for the sale of such Whisky in this city be the simon pure article, for the very best of reasons because the only genuine J H Cutter Whisky is that manufactured and shipped from Louisville Ky by C P Moorman & Co in the Cutter barrel and brand with the manufacturer's name as well as the trade mark and received by Messrs A P Hotaling & Co of this city who have been the accredited agents on this coast for the last [illegible] years.

Having said this much we leave the case in the hands of an intelligent and discriminating public without the slightest fear of an unfavorable verdict.

CITY.

THE WESTSIDE ROAD LITIGATION.—A meeting was held on Thursday evening by the anti-Holladay board of directors of the Oregon Central railroad company, at which a resolution was adopted to the effect that the action now pending in the State circuit court be compromised on terms proposed by the other party. As to the precise conditions of the compromise sought to be effected, we are not advised. It is stated, however, that the Holladay party have agreed to establish railroad stations at Forest Grove and Hillsboro, and afford those points equal accommodations with other stations. Also to take up the freight orders issued prior to the time when the road passed into the hands of the Holladay party. We understand that the character of the action pending is such that it is not within the power of the board of directors to effect the compromise. The matter rests solely with the district attorney, who will determine the question as to whether the interests of the public require a further prosecution of the action. Should a compromise be effected, the precise conditions of the same will be furnished the readers of the OREGONIAN.

PASSENGER LIST.—At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the steamship John L. Stephens sailed hence for San Francisco, carrying the following passengers: Miss Jane H. Davis, Mrs. Bacheret, Mrs. Brown, D. P. Thompson, T. Dittenhoefer, M. Seller, P. Selling, A. P. Campbell, N. W. Tallant, J. Knox, L. H. Lewis and family, Jos. Hume and family, Miss Nellie Hodgson, Miss Mary Swetland, Miss Ida Minor, Mrs. E. Dillon, Master Hesler Kerns, S Swetland, Geo. S. Candler, Wm. Wetherbee and wife, Baptist Escoda, Mrs. Robt. Turner and child, Mrs. Albrecht and infant, Mrs. C. M. Foltz and 2 children, Mrs. T. G. Shurtridge and 2 children, Mrs. W. Gallick and child, Gus Gallick, Louis Cornart, M. Rosendorf, M. Meyer, M. Haufenburg, H. W. S. Downs, L. Townsend, Philip Wasserman, W. Currier, A. S. Hapgood, Mrs. J. H. Brewer and 2 children, F. Levy, J. H. Lovejoy, Mrs. Hapgood, Miss Lucy Winter, H. Pierce, O. E. Gibson, Mrs. L. A. Harris and infant, Richard Walch and wife, I. C. McDowell and wife, W. S. Stambaugh, J. Stooley, B. M. Durelle, Jr., L. Rebecald, and 30 in the steerage.

HUMAN FOOT PETRIFIED.—Hon. B. F. Dowell, of Jacksonville, showed us a stone yesterday which bears unmistakable indications of being a portion of a human foot petrified. The stone was picked up at Willow Springs, about eight miles distant from Jacksonville. It was lying on the surface of the ground when discovered, the peculiar shape and appearance attracting the attention of the finder. The piece includes all the toes and about two inches of the foot extending toward the instep. At the point where the stone was broken the bones of the foot can be very clearly distinguished from what was once flesh. One strong argument in favor of the presumption that it is part of a petrified human foot, is the fact that it was encased in a stocking, as the seam and stitches can be readily traced. It is certainly a curiosity and worthy of a niche in the Museum.

DIED FROM THE EFFECTS.—Our many readers certainly have occasion to remember Mr. W. H. Lother, who formerly resided in this city, and for some time was superintendent of the Oregon Central Railroad. More than two years ago Mr. Lother resigned his position here and went to California. Subsequently he accepted a position on the Santa Fe railroad. We understand he was severely hurt a short time since by a railroad accident, in which he had two ribs fractured, and sustained internal injuries of a grave character, from the effects of which he soon after died. Mr. Lother was well-known all over the coast among "railroaders." He was a gentleman of extensive experience in all matters connected with railroads.

CENTENNIAL.—Messrs. Ladd & Tilton have just received from the treasurer of the Centennial commission, the new Memorial Certificates. They have been engraved and printed at the government bureau, and are certainly the handsomest specimens of work that we have seen issued from that office, and will make a fine adornment for a home. Those of our citizens who have subscribed for the stock will, upon presentation at the bank of Ladd & Tilton of the paid-up scrip which they hold, receive their Memorial Certificate with their name and the number of shares for which they have paid, neatly inserted.

TIMBER ON FIRE.—Late on Thursday night a report reached this city that one of the high bridges along the line of the west-side railroad—several miles from Portland—was on fire. A party was immediately dispatched up the track on a hand-car to ascertain the truth of the report. After proceeding some distance along the road the party discovered, to their agreeable surprise, that the bridge was not on fire, but that the timber near bridge No. 9 was burning fiercely. Yesterday morning, when the train came down, the timber was still on fire. As yet no damage has been done the bridges along the road.

NEW WHEAT.—The west-side train, yesterday morning, consisted of thirteen cars, all told, four cars of which were loaded down with wheat of this year's crop. This is about the first new wheat which has reached the city from Yamhill and Washington counties by way of the west-side railroad. The farmers in the section of country tapped by the road are all extremely busy in threshing out their grain, and considerable quantities of the golden cereal already await shipment. Next week it will be necessary to put on an extra number of freight cars to accommodate the farmers.

RECEIVED A CALL.—Says the Oregon Churchman: "The Rev. Mr. Sellwood, of Oregon City has recently received a call to the rectorship of St. Michael's parish, Boise City, I. T., upon a salary of $1,600 per annum and use of rectory. We sincerely hope that Mr. Sellwood will not be induced to leave his present field of labor. We think this field is as important as the one to which he is now invited, and as Boise is nearer the Eastern States where laborers are more abundant, it will not be so difficult to supply that place as it would Oregon City, should Mr. Sellwood leave."

IMMIGRANT ROBBED.—The Lafayette Courier says: "We learn that a family of immigrants arrived at this place a few evenings since without a dollar, the man having been robbed of his money while in Portland. However, he accepted the situation with courage, rented a house in town, and as he found no trouble in getting employment, there is no danger but that he will come out all right." If such an occurrence took place here the above paragraph is the first intimation we have had of it.

HALF RATES TO THE STATE FAIR.—The Farmer says: "Hon. M. Wilkins, president of the State Agricultural Society, shows us correspondence with Mr. J. Brandt, Jr., general passenger agent of the O. & C. R. R., which informs him that the company has concluded to adopt the half-fare system for all persons who may visit the State fair this fall. From any portion of the railroad any person may purchase tickets to the State fair, during fair week at half the usual price."

Mr. Rockwell will deliver a free lecture daily at 1 o'clock P. M. A class for instruction in horsemanship will be formed.

THE PLUMMER FRUIT DRYER.

Among the products of her soil Oregon can justly boast of her splendid fruits, and, with a market for them, they will become a source of very large revenue to the people of the State. The difficulty in former years has been that the prices which it bore were so low that a great deal was allowed to rot in the orchards. A few lots of fruit of the varieties that would bear shipping to San Francisco were sent there, and a very considerable amount was sun or kiln-dried, and found sale at a small figure. The introduction of machinery which dries the fruit so much more rapidly and better is properly regarded as a movement which is of very general interest in our State. The erection of these machines in the different parts of the State will be the means of saving a very large sum of money to our farmers and orchardists. The first of the Plummer fruit dryers erected has just been finished and put in operation in East Portland, and within a few days past has been visited by a great many people who take an interest in such things, and all who have witnessed its operation and examined the specimens of fruit which it turns out have expressed themselves fully satisfied as to its merits, and that it is what every fruit-growing neighborhood in Oregon needs. The machine at East Portland has a capacity of about 12 bushels of apples per hour, but those of smaller or greater capacity can be made. It consists of a small boiler and engine to furnish the tubes with steam and the cylindrical compartments with hot air; and a large drum-like structure, inside of which are the fruit-drying compartments, twenty in all, and in each compartment are seven tiers of places for the trays of the fruit to be dried. There are also machines for pitting stoned fruits, such as plums and peaches. Mr. Plummer himself superintends the erection of his machines, and has put this one up hurriedly, so that the people can judge of its merits by actual observation, and everybody interested in such matters is invited to call and examine its workings. The work which it has already done demonstrates its superiority as a fruit dryer, and establishes the fact of its perfect success. It has also the recommendation of costing much less than any other machine of its capacity, while it is claimed that it is not surpassed by any in the excellence of its work.

THE TURF.

The following horses are now in training at the Washington county fair grounds, or will be on hand at the fair this fall:

Lute Lindsley, of this county, will be there with Mark Twain and other trotting horses.

Mowich, by Norwich; Ali, by Jack Minor; a four-year-old, Red Mariah, also by Jack Minor; and a two-year-old filly, unnamed, by the horse Napa, by Norfolk, dam by Jack Minor—all owned by W. G. Scoggin. These horses are already on the grounds training.

All of Reed's trotting horses, Clydesdale stock, six in number, led by Autocrat, will enter.

J. F. Bybee will be there with the celebrated trotting horse Foster, Captain Jack, George Glen, Ryestraw, Oregon, a two-year old colt by Doc Lindsley, a brown filly, name unknown, and a bay stallion, three-year-old, name unknown.

Mr. Musgrove, of Sauvies island, will enter his running horses Frank Welch and Norway.

James Welch, of Multnomah county, will enter four or five trotting horses.

John Basket, of Polk county, will enter several horses, among which can be named Beautroft, a four-year-old stallion; Napa, a stallion, and some of his fine two-year and three year-old colts.

Geo. Coggan, of LaGrande, will enter his noted horse Osceola and another fine running horse, name unknown, but imported from California last spring; also a span of fine trotting horses, four-year-old.

Geo. Ross, of Walla Walla, will be there with several fast trotting horses.

Dan Young, of The Dalles, will enter his fine running horse Bigham, and some others.

Mr. Tompkins, the trainer, states that the track is in good condition for training. The outside of the track is in good order for running or trotting and the inside is in order for "working."

If all the horses go that are reported the turf will be better represented in that county at the coming fair than ever known before.

THE STAGE.

Wilson's circus at San Jose on the 6th inst.

What of the proposed first class variety theatre to be opened in the Oro Fino hall?

Alice Dunning and Dickie Lingard, in the "Two Orphans" at the California theater this week.

G. W. Jester, the man with the "talking hand," is at the Olympic variety theater, San Francisco.

Mr. Thos. Whiffin took a part in the concert for the benefit of Wm. Carlton of Hess' opera company at Maguire's, on Thursday evening.

Frank Gilder recommenced his twenty-five cent concerts at San Francisco last Monday evening. He was to be assisted by Herr Formes, Susan and Blanche Galton and Thos. Whiffin.

J. P. Burnett and wife (Jennie Lee) late of the California theater, will produce, during their brief stay at Salt Lake city: "May Blossom," a new piece written for Miss Lee by R. H. Cox, and "Joe," a sketch, adapted from "Bleak House," by J. P. Burnett and R. H. Cox.

Figaro of the 7th inst. has the following: "The Fulford minstrels were at Yreka on the 22d ult." Wonder what Robert will think of that? Here is another from the same paper: "The McGinley sisters are at Portland." We rejoice to say that they have not put in an appearance yet.

RELIGIOUS.

General Howard, by invitation, will deliver an address at 11 o'clock; subject, "Some thoughts on prayer." A general prayer meeting in the evening, at the same place.

BRIEF NOTES.

Races at the White House to-day.

Steamer Gussie Telfair will sail to-day for the north.

Strowbridge's new brick building, at the corner of Yamhill and First streets, is rapidly approaching completion.

The frame for Hon. H. W. Corbett's new residence is up. A number of carpenters are crowding the work forward.

The Free Thinkers will meet in Good Templar Hall, corner of Third and Alder streets, to morrow, at 2 o'clock P. M. All are invited.

Bishop Morris expects to visit St. Luke's Parish, Vancouver, to-morrow. At the evening service the rite of confirmation will be administered.

Jimmy Keenan, who was severely injured on Wednesday night during the fire, is able to appear again on the streets with the assistance of a crutch.

That box of cigars you can get at O'Brien's, Stark and First streets.

Six months ago the tailoring establishment of Johnson & Quinn was one of the smallest in the city. Now it will equal the largest. Call and see.

Genuine imported Vichy water and the delicious creme Polar soda water can only be had at Pfunder's German pharmacy, New Theatre block.

COLD LUNCHES.—The oyster season having closed, WALLER & SON, Oak street, between First and Second, will serve Rare Lunches to their patrons at all hours. The OXFORD SALAD DRESSING, their own preparation, is meeting with great favor. Try it.

FASHION NOTES.

The sleeves of evening dresses should never be lined.

Dress sleeves are worn closer to the arm than ever.

A cuirass front should have whalebones to the end of the darts.

"Mamma, I'll go to church to-day,
Although this is a wilter;
I'll not pin back my dress so tight
And go without my tilter."

The newest bathing costumes for ladies are made of Turkish toweling, the skirt being embroidered in rather gaudy colors. They are belted in and are quite effective.

Cotton fabrics are so low priced at present that ladies who know how to purchase advantageously are supplying themselves with abundance of material for underclothing.

Elegant neckties have square ends invariably trimmed with a scrap of old real lace or embroidered in a lace or open pattern. White lace neckties are also very much used, and if of real lace, as all the finest are, cost from $10 to $12 each.

The Ulster traveling cloak is somewhat of a new feature in the fashion of a duster. This garment is very convenient and certainly neat, besides having the appearance of being sufficiently dressy for the occasion. It is made of dust gray, alpaca or linen.

Feather trimmings are now arranged with so much lightness and beauty that they are considered as suitable for summer as winter wear. The are mounted as fringe as well as bands, though it is as bands they are used for the trimming of bonnets and parasols.

Ladies who wear expensive laces and rich dresses at the sea-side exhibit poor taste. Low priced, rather than the most expensive costumes, should be taken near the beach. To say nothing of economy, gorgeous toilets are unbecoming and out of place at the sea-side, and the damp air spoils them.

Poor women! When they wear loose, ample skirts, everybody condemns their extravagance. Now that the pretty and graceful tie-back skirt comes in, the newspapers call it indecent. Why, its the prettiest thing in the way of dress since Eve left Eden, and what's the use of howling about it?

Croquet slippers are fast approaching the style set by the ancient Greeks, consisting simply of a sole with a very sharp pointed toe, scarcely an inch wide, and a slight strap crossing the instep. They are designed to exhibit the dainty caprices in hosiery, but ladies who wear over threes are not partial to them.

AN OFFICER IN TROUBLE.

Mention has been made by the papers of Eastern Oregon of what was characterized as a "dastardly outrage" on the part of Major Elmer Otis, U. S. A., toward a certain Mrs. Driscoll. Major Otis, at the time of the alleged "outrage," was commanding officer at Camp Harney, and Mrs. Driscoll was laundress of Company A, 21st Infantry. On the 26th of June Mr. George B. Currey, assistant district attorney at Canyon City, addressed a letter to General Howard, in which he enclosed a complaint made by Mrs. Driscoll. The complaint represents that on the 8th of June, at Camp Harney, Major Otis used violence toward the complainant, "thereby causing sickness and a miscarriage." General Howard has addressed the following letter to the commanding officer at Camp Harney in relation to the trouble:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT COLUMBIA,
PORTLAND, Oregon, Aug. 12, 1875.

To the Commanding Officer, Camp Harney—

SIR: You are directed to forward to this office the report of your medical officer with reference to the case of the laundress versus Major Elmer Otis, first cavalry, and any other reports or facts that you can procure for the information and use of this office.

If Major Otis has really been guilty of the conduct imputed to him in the complaint of Mrs. Driscoll, some commissioned officer at the post should have preferred charges against him, and forwarded them for the action of the department commander. If the civil investigation first gave the knowledge of the facts, then, of course, any delay will not contravene justice.

Be sure to have all the reports and charges, if there are any in existence, forwarded as soon as possible. By command of

BRIGADIER-GENERAL HOWARD.
J. A. SLADEN, Aid-de-Camp.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

Zettlein, late pitcher of the Chicago club, has joined the Philadelphias.

What is the matter with our local base-ball players? Too much seaside evidently the trouble.

Colonel Joyce is organizing a professional nine to represent Cincinnati in 1876 for the championship.

The sailing match for $150 will come off to-morrow between the boats Nameless, Cricket and Wren. The boats will start opposite the railroad ferry landing, sail down to the head of Swan Island, up to the foot of Ross Island and back to the point of starting. There will be no second in the contest, the winning boat taking the purse—$150. A lively and exciting time is anticipated.

FIRE MATTERS.

Mr. J. K. Mercer has resigned the presidency of Willamette fire company.

Wm. Chapman, foreman of No. 1, is out with a surveying party near Roseburg.

Columbian fire company have decided to turn out on the anniversary day of the department. We understand Protection company voted, at a late meeting not to turn out. Other companies to hear from.

The Albany firemen and friends had a splendid time, at the Opera House in that place, on Monday evening. Plenty to eat, music and dancing was the programme. Numerous invitations to Portland firemen were issued but declined, owing to "press of business," etc.

One of the most attractive establishments in the city is that of JOS. KOHN'S, in the handsome building recently constructed at the corner of First and Morrison street. Mr. KOHN has an unusually large and varied stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, &c. He made it a point to select goods, on a late trip, specially adapted to the local trade, and his customers will find everything in the new store of the very best quality, latest styles, and the prices regulated to suit.

SAN FRANCISCO BOOT & SHOE STORE. Moore & Hollabaugh, successors to J. Fleischner, 123 First street, respectfully say to the public generally, that they have marked down the old stock from 25 to 50 per cent., and intend to sell regardless of cost. They have this day received a large stock of New Goods, latest styles, which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, endeavoring to suit all who may favor them with their patronage. Custom work done in the latest styles and on new and scientific principles. Repairing done to order. All work warranted. Give them a call before purchasing elsewhere.

The AMERICAN EXCHANGE HOTEL is still run by Quimby, who has been here for the past ten years, and intends to continue. He has no connection whatever with the St. Charles Hotel. His old patrons may be sure of always meeting him at the American Exchange as of old. jy7tf

For the Summer and Fall season some new and appropriate styles in clothing have been introduced. The large and varied stock of BECK & WALDMAN'S is worthy of inspection by all intending to buy something unusually new and attractive. Their late arrivals of Furnishing Goods are also very fine and must meet with great favor. This firm continue to offer special inducements in youths' clothing. In every respect their stock is complete.

Help or We Perish.

This is what neglected teeth would say if they could remonstrate with their owners; and mark this, the teeth cannot perish or become black or yellow if the Sozodont is used daily.

Coughs and Colds are often overlooked. A continuance for any length of time causes irritation of the Lungs or some chronic Throat Disease. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are an effectual Cough Remedy.

WHEN YOU FEEL A COUGH or bronchial affection creeping on the lungs, take AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and cure it before it becomes incurable.

IMPORTANT.—Indorsed by the Medical profession. DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Chest. DR. TOWNSLEY'S TOOTHACHE ANODYNE cures in one MINUTE.

The Profession and the public acknowledge the wonderful cures which have been effected by the use of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. It is the best remedy extant for all lung troubles, from the slightest cold to the settled disease.

CONTRASTS

THE WIFE

As you say Colonel, here it is charming
("Sweet Angel I beg for a waltz")
Your flattery's really alarming!
I am sure that you know it is false
But I'll whirl with you round for a minute
Just to prove how you erred in your haste
A waltz is quite nice while your in it—
Don't hold quite so tight on my waist.

(Writes)

Dear Husband I'm penning this letter
In loneliness here at the Springs
Every day makes me deeper your debtor
For the kind words the precious mail brings
But oh what a void fills my bosom—
You there and I here all alone
No friends that I e'en wish to choose 'em
You chained to your desk like a drone

THE HUSBAND

Here Charley help fill up this basket
Put in the champagne and the ice
Never mind if you should o'ertask it—
Fill it up with this trifle a brace nice.
The Dutch girls will soon make it lighter
After the dance and the swing
Throw in these cigars Strap it tighter,
While I write a line to the Springs

(Writes)

"Slowly the shadows are falling
Alike on my desk and my life
The plaint of a famished love calling
For you my sweet treasure—my wife
I sit here so wearily thinking
And wishing my penance were o'er
And dreaming our love is a linking
My heart with your heart evermore."

A PAWNBROKING INCIDENT

[From Chambers Journal]

As a pawnbroker in a populous suburb of London I have had occasion to see painful, and sometimes not unpleasing phases of society Just to give an idea of what occasionally comes under the notice or persons in my profession, I shall describe a little incident and its consequences One evening I stepped to the door for a little fresh air and to look about for a moment While I was gazing up and down the road I saw a tidily dressed young person step up to our side door She walked like a lady—and let me tell you that in nine cases out of ten it's the walk and not the dress, which distinguishes the lady from the servant girl—and first she looked about, and then she seemed to make up her mind in a flurried sort of way, and in a moment more was standing at our counter holding out a glittering something in a little trembling hand covered with a worn kid glove.

My assistant, Isaacs was stepping forward to take the seal, when I came in and interposed. The poor young thing was so nervous and shy, and altogether so unused to this work, that I felt for her as if she had been my own daughter almost She couldn't have been above eighteen years old—too frail and gentle a creature

"If you please will you tell me," she said timidly, in a very sweet, low voice trembling with nervousness, "what is the value of this seal?"

"Well, miss," I said, taking the seal into my hand and looking at it—it was an old-fashioned seal, such as country gentlemen used to wear, with a coat-of-arms cut upon it—"that depends upon whether you want to pledge it, or sell it outright"

"I am married sir," and she said the words proudly and with dignity, though still so shy and seeming ready to burst but crying "and my husband is very ill—and—and"— And then the tears wouldn't be kept back any longer, and she sobbed as if her poor little heart would break

"There, there, my dear," I said to her, "don't cry; it will all come right in time," and I tried to comfort her as well as I could in my own rough and ready way "I will lend you, ma'am" I said to her at last, "a sovereign upon this seal, and if you wish to sell it, perhaps I may be able to sell it for you to advantage." And so I gave her a pound, it was more than the thing was worth as a pledge and she tripped away with a lighter heart, and many thanks to me, and I thought no more of the matter at the time.

The very next day, the day before Christmas, there came into our place of business a very eccentric gentleman, who had called upon us pretty often before, not for the sake of pawning anything, though he was generally dressed shabby enough, too But he was a collector, one of those men who are mad upon old china and curiosities of all sorts

"Anything in my way, to-day, Mr Davis?" he said, in his quick, energetic manner, with a jolly smile upon his face, and putting down the cigarette he was smoking upon the edge of the counter

The Rev. Mr Broadman is a collector of gems, and rings and seals, and in fact, of any stones that have heads or figures engraved upon them And I had been in the habit of putting aside for him whatever in this way passed through our hands, for he gave us a better price than we should have got for them at the quarterly sales "The fact is, Davis," he used to say to me, these things are invaluable, many of them are as beautiful, on a small scale, as the old Greek sculptures, and some of them even by the same artists. And they are made no longer you see, for, in this busy nineteenth century of ours time and brains are too precious to be spent on these laborious trifles" Now, although I had no stones of the kind he wanted just then, it entered into my head that I would tell him about the seal which had come into my possession the evening before

I told him the story somewhat as I have just told it to you. He listened attentively to all I said When I had done, he looked at the seal and said "I observe that it has the heraldic emblem of a baronet." He then congratulated me upon the way in which I had acted He asked, too, for this young lady's address, which she had given me quite correct, and then he left the shop without another word.

You must give me leave to tell the rest of the story in my own way although it may be a very different way from that which the reverend personage employed in relating it to me afterwards

It seemed that it was a runaway match A country baronet's son had fallen in love with the clergyman's daughter in the village where his father lived, and they had run away together and got married. Then they came up to London, these two poor young things—for neither his father, nor hers either for the matter of that would have anything to say to the match—he, full of hopes on getting on in the literary and artistic line, and she, poor creature, full of trust in him

The project of living by literature did not turn out what was expected The young fellow, without experience or friends spent much time going about from one publisher to another and sending his writings to the editors of the various magazines—which I need not say were always "returned with thanks" And then he fell ill typhus I fancy, brought on by insufficient nourishment, and bad drainage and disappointed hopes The registrar general doesn't give a return of these cases in any list that I am aware of. But, we see something of them in our line of business, nevertheless

It was just at this time that Mr Broadman found out Mrs. Vincent, for that was the name of the young lady who came to my shop with the gold seal Cambridge Terrace is not very far from the Angel at Islington and there, in a little back street of small respectable houses inhabited by junior clerks, with here and there a lodging house, in one of which Mr and Mrs Vincent lived

They were rather shy at first of a stranger and a little proud and haughty, perhaps People who have seen better days, and are down upon their luck are apt to be so But the parson with his pleasant ways and cheery voice soon made it all right and, in a jiffy he and Mr Vincent were talking about college, for they had both been to the same university And there was even soon a smile, too—a wan smile enough—upon the poor invalid's sharp cut, thin face with the hollow, far away eyes which looked at you as if out of a cavern He was the wreck of a fine young fellow too one who had been used to his hunting and and shooting, and all the fine country sports which make broad chested strong limbed country people the envy of us poor, thin, pale towns folk

Mr Broadman came direct to me when he left him "I did not live far off, and he thought that I might lend them a neighbor's help Davis," says he, that poor fellow is dying I can see death in his eyes"

"What is he dying of?" I replied

He looked at me steadfastly a moment and I could see a moisture in his eye as he said slowly and solemnly, "Of starvation, Davis—of actual want of food"

"A gentleman starving in London in Islington, a baronet's son, too! Why, it's incredible"

"Not at all," said Mr. Broadman, "these are the very people who die of starvation in London and in all great cities Not the poor, who know where the workhouse is and who can get at the relieving officer if the worst comes to the worst; but the well-born, who have fallen into destitute poverty and who carry their pride with them, and dive into a back ally like some wild animal into a hole to die alone Mr Vincent wants wine and jellies and all sorts of good things, if help hasn't come too late. No no my friend,' he continued, putting back my hand for I was ready to give my money in a proper cause 'No no I have left them all they want at present, Davis But I'll tell you what you can do you can if you like to play the good Samaritan go and see them and cheer them up a bit Mrs Vincent hasn't forgotten your kindness to her, I can assure you. And I think her husband would like to thank you too and it would rouse him up a bit, perhaps And then Mr Broadman told me shortly something of what these two poor things had gone through—she loving and trusting him so and he half mad that he had brought her to this pass and could do nothing for her

Mr Broadman wrote that very day to the baronet a proud, hard man I'm told But the letter he wrote back was soft enough, and melting to read it was so full of human nature you see—the father's heart swelling up at the thought of getting back his son and bursting through the thick crust of pride which had prevented him from making the first advances And the parson says to me "Well Mr Davis" he said there are many people kept asunder only for want of somebody to go between them you see and make peace

And I said, partly to myself Why shouldn't Christianity itself be such a general peacemaker as that?

"Ay" replied Mr Broadman "if people only believed in it properly

That very day we got the baronet's letter I was on my way in the afternoon to Cambridge Terrace to pay my respects to Mrs Vincent—and I had sent in a few bottles of good old port wine from my own wine merchant—as least as good as can be got for money or love Well, when I got near the door I saw an old gentleman walking up and down a little disturbed, apparently in his mind at finding himself in such a queer locality A short rosy faced person he was clean shaved as a pin and very neat and old fashioned in his dress, and with that sort of air about him which marks an English country gentleman wherever he may be Well we soon got into talk, for I'd spotted the baronet in a moment, and he was anxious to find out something about his son as soon as he heard that I knew a little of the young couple

"And you do not think sir, that my—that Mr Vincent is dangerously ill?" said the old baronet, and there was a sob in his voice as he spoke, and his hand trembled as he laid it upon mine

"Here is the house sir" I said, "and you will be able to judge for yourself"

We went in At least the baronet went into the room, trembling in every limb with the excitement of seeing his son But when he set eyes on him, the poor old man was so startled that he could scarcely speak His son saw him and tried to rise but fell back feebly into his chair "Dear father," he murmured stretching out a thin, trembling hand "forgive"

But the father was on his knees by the chair in a moment, clasping his son's head in his arms, and fondling him as he had done when the man was a baby

"What have I to forgive? You must forgive me for being so hard my dear boy and get better soon Wilfred, my son my son"

I too had come into the room I could not help it I was so interested and excited But I saw that in the young man's face which made my heart sink in my bosom like lead

The young wife saw it too and gave one two three sharp screams, as if a knife had been thrust into her side

Mr Broadman saw it and quietly kneeling down commended to God—as well as he could for sobbing—the soul of His servant departing this life

And I—well why should I be ashamed to confess it?—I knelt down too, and cried like a child for the young man had died in his father's arms, at the very moment of reconciliation

The telegraph to day advises us that active steps are now being taken in the matter of redeeming the outstanding fractional currency of a denomination lower than 50 cents The amount of these 3, 5 10 and 25 cent notes is so small that the effect of the measure will scarcely be perceptible and will be no criterion by which to judge of the operation of a law which would provide for a general resumption

In our local money market no new developments of public interest have been shown to day and with a very quiet feeling things are moving forward in about the same channel and direction in which they have run for some weeks past holders of capital possibly growing a little more conservative but refusing no accommodations asked for if accompanied by good real estate or personal security. The demand for means to move the wheat crop has as yet not been of sufficient magnitude to influence the market perceptibly and it is not likely that any serious pressure will be felt from this cause this season as has generally been heretofore

Trade matters assume no new phases to day and though the volume of transactions for the week now about closing has been fair for the season individual purchases have in no case been large The movement in most cases has been in small bills to the country trade The only activity in the jobbing trade has been in filling small orders to the retail trade preferring at this time only to keep up their stocks sufficient to satisfy the current demand from day to day until it can be seen whether any important revolution or significant change is to be brought about by the full opening of the fall trade Stocks of wholesale houses for business of autumn are beginning to arrive quite freely but as yet the bulk of them is not at hand

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—Under all the circumstances our local market is as active as could be expected The bulk of the harvest is not yet over and farmers are too busy in saving their crops to spend time in investigating the markets upon which but very few of them are yet ready to put their surplus Exporters are also under no pressing necessity just now nor are they likely to be at any time during the season to the extent they were last year when vessels chartered at high rates and liable to heavy demurrage were at hand and awaiting cargoes This season the rule has been not to engage a large number of vessels beforehand and but few of the many now on the way to our State are under charter A few sales of wheat have been effected during the past week generally at the rate of $1 95 per cental, but doubtless in some cases at a trifling advance on these figures and the same quotations rule to-day

FLOUR—The local market has been firm all the week at $6 per bbl for standard extra $5 50 for choice outside and country brands and $5 for superfine Some indications of another advance of 25 cents per bbl, were noted two days ago but under advices of some slight weakening tendency in the Liverpool wheat market, the disposition was checked At this writing the market is firm at our quotations Exports and receipts are light at present, only small lots of the new wheat crop being ready for milling

OATS—Prices have been reduced to 50@55c ℔ bushel under increased receipts of the new crop

MILLFEED—There is not a heavy stock in the market but the demand which is light is fairly supplied at $16@17 per ton for bran and $30 for middlings. Shorts are quotable at $22 50@$25

BARLEY—Prices are unchanged and in the absence of sufficient transactions to establish prices we quote feed at $1 25 and choice brewing $1 40@1 45 per cwt.

POTATOES—There is an ample supply in the market and prices for a choice article have receded to 1c ℔ ℔

ONIONS—Report from the growing crop is favorable Importations from San Francisco continue Market quotable at from 2@2½c ℔ ℔

FRESH FRUIT—Apples pears and plums are in free receipt as are also blackberries Prices continue so unsettled that we are unable to give correctly The range for apples is 75c@$1 50 ℔ box plums and pears are the same Blackberries are from 5 to 8c ℔ ℔

DRIED FRUIT—Dried apples are in demand at from 7½@8c ℔ ℔ Dried plums are scarce and command 15c ℔ ℔

BACON AND HAMS—Market overstocked Prices rule low and buyers favor at for bacon 11@12c ℔ ℔, hams. 11@13c ℔ ℔ shoulders 7@8c ℔ ℔

LARD—Importation from San Francisco is freer The market is quiet at from 15 to 17c ℔ ℔

EGGS—Dealers are paying 30@35c ℔ dozen Receipts are light

BUTTER—Market firmer for best quality in rolls and also in kegs We quote rolls for fair to choice 22@25c ℔ ℔ extra choice 30@35c and common 16@20c In kegs we quote extra at 20@25c ℔ ℔ in jobbing lots

CHICKENS—Old were sold to day as high as $4 50 per dozen

DUCKS—Demand light with prices lower quotable at $4 50 per dozen

BEEF CATTLE—The consumption in this city from July 31 1874 to August 1 1875 is given at 4,000 head Slaughterers prices are 3½@4c ℔ ℔ neat and 1½@2½ on foot

MUTTON SHEEP—A light demand rules at from $2@2 75 per head

DRESSED HOGS—Trade dull at from 5½@6½c ℔ ℔

HIDES AND FURS—Hides are in a little better demand but no recovery in prices is given Furs are more sought for and better prices given We quote hides best selected 14@15c ℔ ℔ culls ¼ off green 6c elk 18@20c ℔ ℔ deer 15@35c ℔ ℔ for dried and 50@75c each green Mink skins $1 50 each otter $1@3 each beaver 75c@$1

WOOL—Transactions are a little off at present, though a good deal of the spring clip is yet unsold The Eastern market has undergone no important fluctuation during a week past Ours is quotable at 26@28c for choice valley and 14@22c per lb for Eastern Oregon. Much complaint is yet heard among buyers because of lots of wool badly packed and not graded

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives Sarsaparilla, Dock Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs whose action they derange and whose substance they disease and destroy AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone the disorders they produce disappear such as Ulcerations of the Liver Stomach Kidneys Lungs Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin St. Anthony's Fire Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples Pustules Blotches, Boils Tumors Tetter and Salt Rheum Scald Head, Ringworm Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones Side and Head Female weakness Sterility Leucorrhea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy Dyspepsia Emaciation and General Debility With their departure health returns.

Every board now regards its action in making the reduction as a full cause that the tendency of this competition was to cut down the surplus of companies so that property was really covered only for ordinary casualties and not for great disasters, which might visit the city at any time.
